Chantal's lunch lies on the table. It contains a Capri Sun juice drink, a sandwich, a bag of cookies and a cup of chocolate pudding. Harris has his mouth full of peanut butter and jelly sandwich with some jelly left on the side of his mouth. What a messy kid. He continues to chew what's left of the sandwich but while doing that, he notices Chantal's cup of chocolate pudding.

HARRIS
(with a mouthfull)
Hey Chantal...
(points to the chocolate pudding cup)
You gonna eat that?

Chantal grabs the chocolate pudding cup and hands it to Harris.

HARRIS (CONT'D)
Thanks.

Chantal shakes her head "no" at Harris. The school bell RINGS.

It's the end of the day already. Students leave out of the main building and rush to get onto the four awaiting yellow school buses. Some of the kids parents come to pick their kid up.

INT. SCHOOL BUS (PARKED)- DAY

The bus is crowded with rowdy kids. Chantal walks down the aisle, trying to find a seat. Behind an empty seat towards the back sits two identical twin boys, DODGER and ROGER, both 10 years old. They are chewing gum. They see that Chantal is coming their way.

DODGER
Quick! Here she comes, here she comes!

Dodger and Roger take their chewing gum out of their mouths and stick them onto the empty seat for Chantal to sit on. Sitting in two seats across from the twins are Angie and Natasha in one seat, Harris and Gilbert in the other. They notice what the twins have done.

ANGIE

Nothing.

GILBERT

CHANTAL

Naw I don't think she will fall for that. This morning she took my breakfast away from me and then guess what? She made me make my own lunch. The kids mouths drop open in amazement.

GILBERT

Isn't that like an adult's job to make a kid's lunch?

CHANTAL

It sure is, and it's our job to get rid of her.

The kids all cheer.

ROGER

Chantal, here's a seat.

Dodger points at the seat where they just placed the glue.

CHANTAL
